

Now

With F.M.L.

We note condemnation proceedings in effect, are underway on a couple of old houses in West Cameron. Property owners apparently have not responded to city requests to improve, maintain or tear down the buildings on sites in question.

This is a real start on what will do as much for Cameron's general cleanup than hauling all the brush and broken limbs ever would do.

It will clear space for recreation areas and parks in some cases, provide sites for new construction in other or just clear unsightliness which mars the improvements nearby or discourages people from making improvements.

City of Cameron with judicial haste should proceed in eliminating what so many decades of indifference have allowed to accumulate.

If any example is needed, just look anywhere in the nine-block downtown area; you know, where all the streets and new buildings are.

NOW-NOW-NOW

An ice cream social opened the Cameron Booster Club year last week. And prospective members and YHS athletes ate their share.

Best guess is that the 125 or so people tried to consume about 40 gallons of home-made ice cream. Which is like kicking a 100-yard field goal or hitting four service aces in the set and match game at Wimbledon or sinking the winning jump shot in the NCAA final from 50 feet out.

After peach, strawberry, vanilla cherry, and pineapple, what else is there in ice cream?

Except more.

Area Roundup

Accident Rate Jumps Up

CALDWELL

The automobile accident rate in Burleson County has jumped far above state and national averages and previous years records, it has been revealed. At the same time a big jump has also marked the number of Driving While Intoxicated cases in the county. Thomas Althaus, DPS patrolman serving in the county, reports that in a five day period ending Sunday night the county had nine accidents with five injuries and one death.

Ambulance Service In Doubt

TEMPLE

Temple has been requested by Harper-Talasek Funeral Home to take over its ambulance service, as the funeral home says it is unable to continue to provide service in Temple. The funeral home became the city's only ambulance service in March 1972 when Hewett Funeral Home dropped its ambulance service. Talasek estimated that his company handles about 200 calls a month, including routine transfers from the city's four hospitals.

Centennial Plans Moving Along

ROCKDALE

Advance plans indicate Rockdale will have a successful and memorable Centennial Celebration June 2-9 in 1973, according to John Ballard, chairman of the Centennial planning committee. Among plans now in the making are a centennial ball, and a Miss Centennial pageant. The Centennial Queen will be selected early at the pageant in the fall of this year so that she may make public appearances to help promote the 100th birthday of Rockdale.

Harrelson Denies Murder

HEARNE

Charles V. Harrelson took the stand in his murder trial at Brownsville and denied that he killed Sam Degelia Jr. of Hearne on July 6, 1968 in an abandoned pump house southwest of McAllen when Harrelson shot Degelia. Harrelson answered "No, sir" when asked by defense attorney Percy Foreman if he shot Degelia.

Poll Favors 2-Hour Parking

GEORGETOWN

Downtown Georgetown has a shortage of parking space, but the status quo will remain with little change if the results of a recent Chamber of Commerce poll have any influence on the situation. Of about 300 survey cards returned to the Chamber, half favored retaining two-hour parking as it now exists, with possibly more strict enforcement of the law. Of the remaining cards, parking meters were a two-to-one favorite over one-hour parking.

Drug Abuse Center To Open

WACO

The Waco-McLennan County Health and Mental Retardation Center's new drug abuse program, named Changes, will provide for the first time in the county a comprehensive drug abuse treatment program. Included will be a residential drug-free living center and methadone treatment for heroin addiction scheduled to open around September 1. According to the program director, there are approximately 600 "hard-core" heroin addicts in Waco.

School Budget Tops Million

Salaries Take Biggest Bite Of Budget

MORE CURBING goes down along First Street, where machinery and trucks have kept the dust stirring as they prepare the street for paving. The new curbs and sidewalk are down in front of Irvings, L&M Jewelers, and Montgomery Ward on First Street.

A $1,119,509 budget for the 1973-74 school year was adopted by Cameron school trustees Thursday evening during a regular meeting. The budget is larger than the one for last year, which was $1,044,637.

Again salaries were the largest single term in the budget with $819,228 set for payroll costs, compared with $779,206 last year.

Estimated revenue includes $331,944 for local maintenance and debt service tax; $175 for tuition; $1,250 from the county for a total of $33,369 local and intermediate sources.

Revenue from state sources includes $603,340 per capita and foundation $33,250 transportation; $3,720 vocational; and $82,970 elementary and secondary education act; for a total of $723,280 in state sources.

Non-revenue receipts will amount to $62,900 (to borrow for new bus), for a total revenue for the year at $1,119,509.

Estimated expenditures include $819,228 for payroll costs -- for teachers, administration, media service, pupil services and plant maintenance and operation.

Purchased and contracted services add $17,350; and supplies and material add $53,250. Other operating expenses are $29,400; debt service $31,390; and capital outlay, $162,900.

Total expenditures for the year are $1,113,518, which would give the school a surplus of about $40,000.

King Size Party To Honor Centex Congressmen

Plans are underway for a king sized stag party honoring Congressmen Bob Poage of Waco and Jake Pickle of Austin. The event will be held Thursday night, August 23 at Wilson Fox's Riverside Ranch.

The ranch is located six miles northeast of Taylor. Festivities are due to start at 6 p.m. Tickets for this year's party will be $4.50 according to Wilson Fox, one of the events promoters.

"Due to the meat shortage we will not be able to serve steaks this year, but the catering service has promised the food to be as good as usual, if not better," Fox said.

These parties honoring congressmen date back to 1948 when Homer Thornberry represented the 10th district. Political leaders from throughout the state, including the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, have attended the event.

This will be the first year that more than one congressman will be honored. This is due to the fact that Williamson County, long a part of the 10th district is now in the 11th district as a result of last year's redistricting.

Tickets may be purchased in the Cameron area from Gene Blake, P. O. Box 189, Cameron; Narvie Caperton, Postmaster, Cameron; and Cecil Criswell in Buckholts.

Duo Charged In Forgery Case

Charges of forgery have been filed in Justice of the Peace Court against two men for forging doctor's prescriptions for drugs and having them filled at local drugstores Wednesday.

Oren M. Cleveland III of Galveston was released on bond and Stanley Stone of Waco is in county jail following their arrest by lawmen at Caldwell.

Sheriff Carl Black said Bernay Dusek of Dusek's Pharmacy became suspicious of the two men and took their car license number, reporting to the sheriff. Sheriff Black contacted state officials for identification of the car, which was registered in Galveston. He put out a call on the radio and the men were apprehended at Caldwell.

They also had prescriptions filled at Schiller's Pharmacy.

Trustees Hear Progress Report, Plan To Broadcast Games

The Cameron school board Thursday evening heard reports on progress of renovation, opened bids on bread, milk and gas, and heard a proposed plan to broadcast some local athletic events on a Georgetown radio station.

The trustees also amended the 1972-73 budget and adopted a budget for the coming school year. (See separate story.) Also adopted was a hot weather schedule for the first weeks of school. Trustees also had a short discussion of boys wearing tank tops to school.

Supt. D. R. Dodson reported that

Mrs. Beathard Is Registrar For Draft Board

Mrs. Virginia Beathard has been appointed registrar for Local Board No. 92 of the Selective Service System.

To accomplish their registration with Selective Service, young men reaching the age of 18 years may contact Mrs. Beathard at the office of the county judge, main floor of the courthouse in Cameron.

Young men are reminded that they still must register with Selective Service even though there is no draft. Other registrars for local Board No. 92 are Henry J. Litzman, post office in Cameron; John D. Yoakum, Milano; Norman Clement, Thorndale; Leonard Allen, Rockdale; Floyd Stark, Buckholts; and Walter G. Marek in Burlington.

Man Hospitalized For Gunshot Wound

A Branchville man is listed in satisfactory condition with a gunshot wound in the side following a shooting Thursday afternoon near Branchville.

Albert Blue Jr. is in a Temple hospital following exploratory surgery for the wound, made by a 12-gauge shotgun.

Sheriff Carl Black said Mrs. Doris Blue was arraigned before the Justice of the Peace in Cameron and was released on her own recognizance in connection with the case.

No charges have been filed in the shooting, Black said.

work is moving along on renovating Ada Henderson rest rooms, which will probably be complete before school opens. A new floor, ceiling and new fixtures are being installed.

A contract for bread will be given to Mrs. Baird's bakery, who was low bidder of three bread firms submitting bids. Low bidder for milk was the Pure Milk Co., and the bid for ice cream went to Swift and Co. No bids were received for gasoline. Dodson said the present gasoline contract expires in September.

Bill Buchanan, general manager of the Georgetown FM radio station explained his firm's reasons for wanting to broadcast live coverage of football games. Supt. Dodson said he opposed the idea, that he couldn't see charging people for coming to the games while others heard it free on the radio. "It's not fair," he stated.

Buchanan discussed the proposal at length, and trustees voted to accept the plan for live broadcasts.

Schedule for the first few weeks of school will have the hours of 8 a.m. until 2 p.m., a one-hour shorter day than on a regular schedule.

Mrs. Carol Barr, trustee, reported that two litter receptacles are available for placing on poles along 12th Street to help solve the litter problem. Another trash can will also be placed on the school grounds.

Upon a question by Mrs. Donald Jeter, trustees said they had no objection to boys wearing tank tops to school, but it would be left up to the principals of each school as to whether they would be accepted.

In other business, the board also hired five teachers; Jackie R. Almand, Patricia Ann Gaghagen, Jean C. Stubblefield, Nancy Kay Lacy, and Sue Ellen Gandy.

New RC Chapter Chairman

He also serves as member of the Northeast Texas Division Council of Red Cross Chapters in this territory and is a multi-media First Aid instructor.

Violence Renewed...

Just when Houston was seeing a turn in crimes of physical violence, up pops the horrors of a murder-perversion case which may yield 30 deaths.

Authorities and jail inmates were digging up 15 to 20 decomposed bodies in a boat storage house after a high school drop out admitted complicity in the death of another Houston youth.

It sounds a little like the mass slaying discovered in California involving a local labor boss who somehow decided doing people in served some purpose.

The Houston slayings are part of some kind of perversion case, Houston authorities advise, shaking their heads at the prospects of finding more bodies than they've already dug up.

This is an exceptional case in even these exceptional times. But for it, Houston might have reduced its standing on the major city crime list.

Real Beginning...

Residential construction is strong for the first half year, $216,000 by building permit count.

That is a good construction flow, probably what the trade and finance can manage at present, but it will one day be a small part of construction in this area.

It probably means about 10 to 15 housing starts in that period.

A number of houses also have been changing hands as people relocate. A number of houses are undergoing major change.

Housing starts are a significant mark of the changing times here. What we see now is only the real beginning.

Bahamas Become Major Tax Haven For Americans

By Mark Meredith

NASSAU, Bahamas
Reuter -- The nervous American investor entered the managers office at the Nassau branch of a big international bank, closed the door and dropped his trousers.

Confronting a startled bank manager was a money belt strapped around the man's waist containing 6000 dollars in carefully packed $100 notes.

Such, along with sun, sandy beaches, three gambling casinos and swank hotels, is the lure of the Bahamas -- one of the world's major tax havens.

Uncounted and seemingly uncountable hundreds of millions of dollars eluding the taxmen of the United States, and to a lesser extent Canada and Britain, are entered in the books of over 300 separate banking institutions which have been generated by the flight of capital from corporate and income taxes.

That $6,000 went undeclared on U. S. income tax forms, was not on paychecks or listed in bankbooks which are scrutinized by the Department of Internal Revenue. It passed undetected at one of hundreds of U. S. airports or Yacht basins.

The Bahamas is close and convenient for Americans. The northern end of the island and rock archipelago is one 50 miles off the Florida coast and this proximity has accounted for the prosperity.

The island - nation became independent July 10, ending three centuries of British colonial rule. But by the time the British flag was ceremoniously lowered in front of Britain's Prince Charles and the Bahamas first black prime minister, Lynden O. Pindling, the outlines of the British heritage had grown faint.

Proximity has led to a spillover of American wealth everywhere apparent: long glassy American cars dominate the roads; baseball has supplanted cricket and an American twang or drawl is much more common than crisp British accents.

While more than one million tourists a year provide 60 per cent of the country's revenue, the economic spin-off of the huge banking industry has created the country's second biggest money-earner.

But barely a trickle of the millions passing through the bank balances is actually injected into developing the Bahamas economy.

Bankers argue that the advantages to the country come from the employment of banking staff, the building of banks and the supporting industries that meet the consumption needs of the big banking community.

Most of the money comes in gluts of $40,000 to $60,000. But the bulk of the millions never physically enter the country.

They are entered only on the books of big international banks which then quickly route them through their main clearing houses in London or New York and onto the international money markets.

The dollars then flood into the Euro-dollar market of dollars owned outside the United States.

Hard cash physically brought in by investors often leaves the country again as banks use their Bahamas branches to fund various international loan commitments.

Some American investors order dividends and interest earned from European investments to be funneled into their Bahamas accounts.

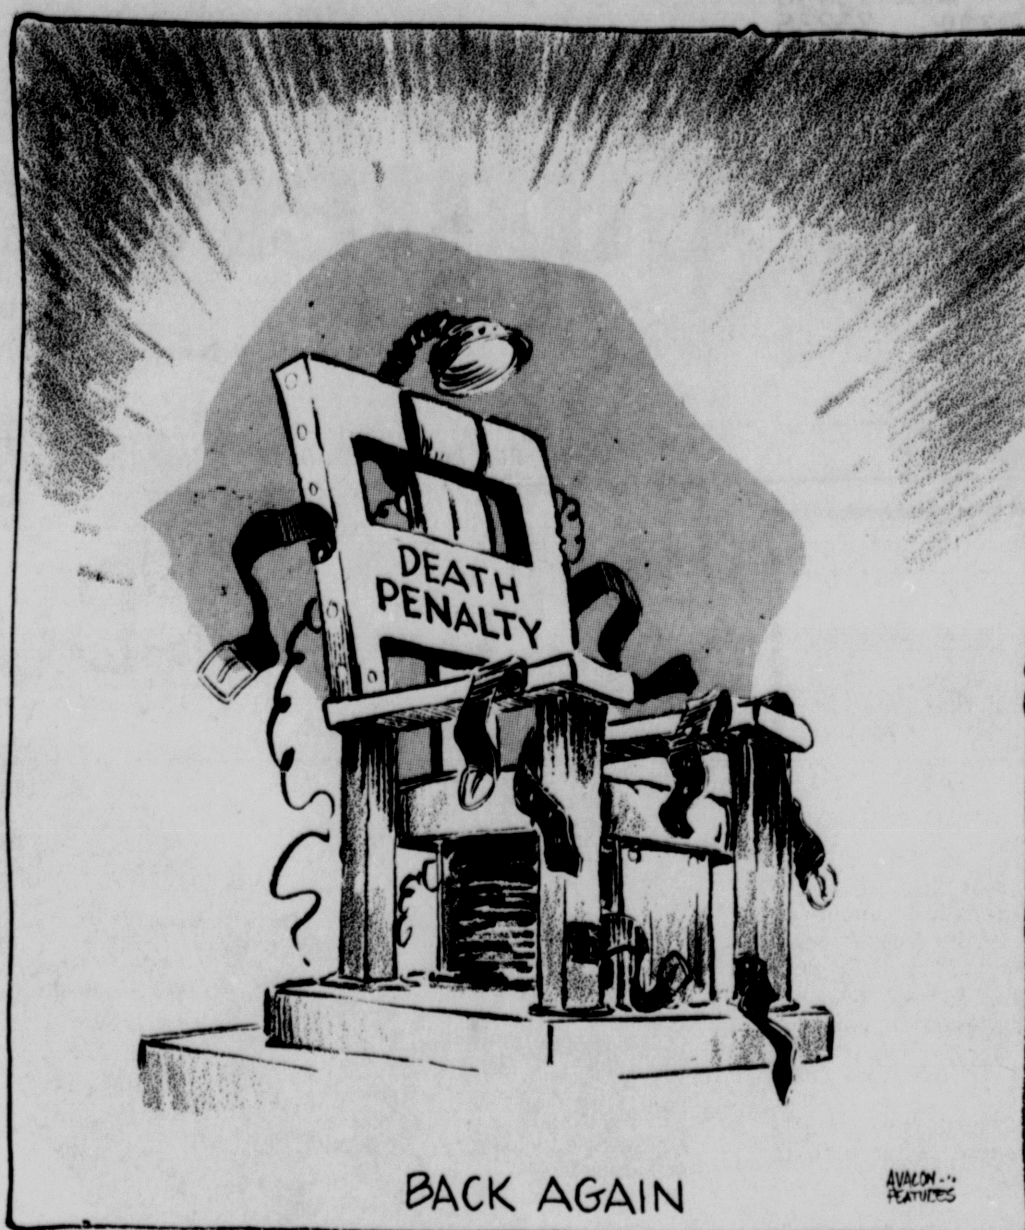

On the books of the Bahamas registry office are thousands of "off-shore" companies which are often foreign firms which set up representation in the Bahamas to handle payments on imports and exports.

An American firm importing goods from abroad and selling them in the United States will pay for the goods and chalk up the profits or part of them on the books in the Bahamas, where they will be untaxed.

'The King David Report' Satirizes Stalin's Methods

By Donald Armour

EAST BERLIN
Reuter -- East Germany may soon be publishing a novel it would never touch in Stalinist times -- a book satirizing Stalin's method of rewriting history.

The work by one of East Germany's most prominent novelists, Stefan Heym, is called "The King David Report," and its attack on Stalinist history-writing methods is couched in an Aesops language.

The book will appear in Britain this month, although its contents are such that East Germany's official publishers have so far not touched it.

But an article on Heym, an East German national prize-winner, in the official newspaper "Neues Deutschland" surprised many recently when it said the book will be published here soon.

Ostensibly a historical chronicle, the book tells how the facts are stretched at the court of King Solomon to put a positive gloss on the official life of his father, the tyrannical King David.

King Solomon's intentions are political. He wants to consolidate his own absolute rule -- achieved by coup -- by providing official proof of the legitimacy of his father's ascendancy.

For the informed reader there are obvious parallels with recent communist history especially when one bears in mind that the author lives in a communist state.

Asked about the comparison with communist history -- writing and re-writing as an instrument to justify policy, Heym resists the notion that there is any close parallel with the communist world along.

"Every journalist, every writer and every historian knows how far he can go in telling the truth," he says. "If you take a fairly recent and well-known case, that of the Pentagon papers, you have the problem of very have the problem very clearly right in the United States."

However, details in "The King David Report" provide an apparent parallel with conditions under Stalinism. The Jewish scribe Ethan is called to the court of King Solomon to write the official history, his hand guided by an official commission.

Having been enjoined to do a "suitable" job, he later ponders privately whether he might be able to slip in a line or two so that later generations might know what kind of man David really was -- who "had his own son and most loyal servants assassinated while loudly bewailing their death, and who forged a people out of a motley of miserable peasants and recalcitrant nomads."

There seems an evident similarity here with Stalin as seen through the eyes of later, critical historians.

Although the book has so far not been published in this country, an article in the all-important daily newspaper Neues Deutschland, controlled by the party, offered fulsome praise to Heym on the occasion of his 60th birthday. There was general surprise by the articles announcement that "The King David Report" was to be published after all.

The move was seen by observers as an attempt by the regime to make its peace with the Jewish Heym, who returned to his "Jerusalem, -- Berlin -- in 1952 after 19 years in the United States to support the new system with his works. He later fell a foul of the regime himself and was temporarily ignored by the official publishers.

Heym, born in Chemnitz -- now Karl-Marx-Stadt, East Germany -- is cautious of allowing it to be said of him that he is being taken back into the official fold here.

He remarked: "It is not I who have changed, but the fold which is the process of changing..."

Japan Seeks Clean Energy

By Yuko Nakamidako

TOKYO

Reuter -- Japan is looking to a national "sunshine project" to develop solar and other "clean" energy sources by the year 2000 and help overcome dwindling oil supplies.

Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka told a recent press conference it was imperative to organize a major project on the lines of the massive United States Apollo space program which put man on the moon to meet growing energy needs.

So far government and private institutions with only limited funds have been conducting separate researches.

But international cooperation is now taking shape. The U. S. and Japan in a recent cabinet - level conference on trade and economic affairs pledged cooperation in developing new energy sources.

Exchange of information is already under way for development of solar energy and synthetic gas, with coal as the base material.

The Americans are also offering to make available to Japan its technology on enriched uranium for a proposed joint project to expand nuclear power production.

The trade ministry in Tokyo said scientists in Hawaii in particular, were also proposing cooperation in developing geothermal energy.

A ministry spokesman said there had been no exchange of information so far and no arrangements had been made for any specific contact.

The oil share is increasing, in 1971 it was 73.5 per cent, and Japan depends on imports for 99 per cent of its oil supplies -- 86 per cent from the politically volatile Middle East.

Development of "clean" energy is urgent for Japan in the light of a deteriorating environment through industrial pollution and increasing resistance to the construction of nuclear plants from "nuclear allergic" local residents, the trade ministry spokesman said.

The Japanese are extremely sensitive to atomic energy after hundreds of thousands of people died in the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in the second World War.

The almost limitless supplies of natural energy are also being sought because of the danger of decreasing supplies of uranium for nuclear power plants. Japan has no domestic source of the mineral.

The "sunshine project" calls for solar, geothermal synthetic gas and hydrogen energy to be put into practical operation by 2000. This would represent about 20 per cent of Japan's energy consumption in that year, a spokesman said.

A&M Specialist Compares Family Life Experiences

COLLEGE STATION American families vary greatly in their experiences and family ties.

"Degrees of family unity range from the extremes of total disruption or disorganization to solidification and unification," according to Dorothy Taylor, specialist in family life education with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

She discussed and contrasted the highly solidified family and the dynamically unified family.

"A highly solidified family emphasized familism and disapproves of individuality. Members are considered parts of a single unit--not separate individuals."

"In fact, family unity is so great that members find it extremely difficult to break away--even to form families of their own."

"When a close-knit family member does marry, his or her mate may experience difficulty becoming incorporated into the family unit."

If that person doesn't fit into the family and follow its practices, irritations and conflicts generally result often followed by separation or divorce."

In contrast, the dynamically unified family offers greater flexibility and provides more individual growth, Miss Taylor explained.

"These families emphasize individuality and personality development of their members--instead of subordination to family units."

"Family unity, on the other hand, is based on consensus of its members."

WED 60 YEARS - Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hertenberger were honored recently by their 9 children, 31 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren. The Hertenbergers, both natives of Milam County, were married May 13, 1913, and have made their home in Milam County since that date.

Citrus And Tuna For Refreshing Company Salad

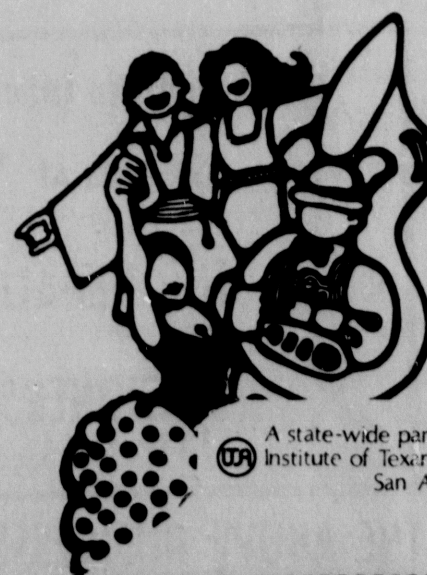

Summer is salad appreciation time--and guests who gather at the salad bowl can always derive pleasure and satisfaction from this new version of the popular Tuna-Waldorf Salad--made with citrus fruits instead of the traditional apple. Its elegant appearance and flavor belie the fact that it's so easy and so inexpensive to make. And the reason is that canned tuna in vegetable oil is still one of the lowest-priced main dish foods available. In fact it is an incredible value, not only in terms of money but in terms of nutrition, too, for it has complete protein comparable to that of lean beef. And since canned tuna requires no further cooking for use in a wide variety of tempting dishes, you'll find this Tuna Citrus Waldorf Salad--with its superb avocado dressing--practically makes itself in minutes.

Tuna Citrus Waldorf Salad

3 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil	1 cup broken walnut pieces
3 cans (16 ounces each) grapefruit and orange sections, well drained	1 medium avocado
2 cups diagonally sliced celery	3 tablespoons lemon juice
	1/2 cup water
	1 tablespoon sugar
	1/2 teaspoon salt
	1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
	Salad greens

Drain tuna, reserving 1/4 cup oil for dressing (add extra salad oil, if necessary). Flake tuna or cut into chunks; combine with grapefruit and orange sections, celery and walnut pieces; reserve. Peel avocado and remove pit; cut into small pieces. In small bowl, mash avocado with lemon juice. Add reserved tuna oil and all remaining ingredients except salad greens; beat together until smooth and creamy. Or combine in blender container and blend on high speed until mixture is smooth. Line salad bowl with salad greens. Add reserved tuna-citrus mixture; serve with avocado dressing. YIELD: 10 to 12 servings.

Service Contracts Not For Everyone

Today's appliances perform many modern wonders -- until something suddenly goes wrong.

"Repairing these appliances is expensive. As a result, many consumers turn to service contracts," Lillian Cochran, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System said.

Usually these contracts are offered consumers when an appliance is purchased, she noted.

Some consumers consider a service contract "a way of insuring appliances against high repair bills."

"For an annual fee or set amount, the buyer receives an agreement to repair the appliance as often as needed without further charge."

"This eliminates concern over cost of appliance repairs. Purchasers won't see another repair bill -- as long as the service contract is in effect."

Another big advantage is "deliverance from lemons." A chronically ailing appliance becomes someone else's "headache," Miss Cochran added.

"Nevertheless, a service contract may or may not be a good deal."

"If a repair bill is higher than the service contract cost, the consumer saves money. But when service isn't needed in a given year, money was paid out unnecessarily."

Also keep in mind that some appliances are less likely to need service, the specialist continued.

"Those with numerous mechanical parts -- such as automatic washers or dishwashers -- usually require more service during their lifetime than appliances with few or no moving parts -- such as ranges."

When considering a service contract, read it thoroughly to understand its terms, Miss Cochran emphasized. "Make sure you know precisely what it does -- and doesn't -- cover."

"Find out your obligations -- as well as the seller's agreement."

Before signing a service contract, determine:

-- What is covered -- parts, labor, number of calls.

-- What are the time limitations? A contract may appear to be a bargain, but cover only 9 months instead of a year.

-- Is there a limit to number of service calls?

-- Are you paying for protection on parts already covered by warranty?

-- If you move out of the dealer's service area, are there provisions for a refund, or can the contract be transferred to a dealer in the new location?

-- If the contract covers labor only, can you obtain a price list of parts before signing the contract?

The Consumer Alert--

AUSTIN
Back in the days when the holder of a bank checking account could write a draft on a brown paper sack, or a piece of wood bark, it probably wasn't as hard to keep track of an account balance as it is today when Texas banks print personalized drafts, process checks with computers, and offer a myriad of helpful services.

But one of the major problem merchants encounter today is the proliferation of worthless checks which are given, in the main, it seems, by well-meaning consumers who simply find it hard to master the mathematics of checking accounts.

Hundreds of millions of drafts on Texas banks are written annually by people who find this a convenient way to keep a record of payment on everything from insurance premiums, to mortgage coupons, to sandwich luncheons and drug-store purchase.

Usually, everything works out to the satisfaction of the account holder, the merchant, and the bank depositor.

Many times, however, checks do "bounce" -- that is to say, get returned to the merchant with a bank explanation of "insufficient funds."

In that event, the merchant will notify the check writer by certified mail of the return, with a request that the insufficient check be redeemed by a certain date.

In most cases, the giver of the check responds right away, since a good credit record is one of the most-prized assets in today's society.

If the consumer does not answer the notice about a returned check for up to $50, however, the merchant can take the worthless check -- together with his certified mail receipt -- to the county attorney for collection and/or legal action on what is classified as a misdemeanor crime.

(As of August 27, 1973), when a new law takes effect, the county attorneys will have jurisdiction on worthless checks for up to $200. The legal penalty for prosecution will be up to two years in county jail and/or a maximum fine of $1,000.

New Buildings, Equipment Ready For TJC Students

TEMPLE
New buildings, equipment and leadership will be evident when Temple Junior College registration opens August 29, but the emphasis will continue to be on the basic objectives set up when the school first opened its doors in 1926.

Those objectives are to provide fully accredited academic work transferrable to all senior colleges, to provide technical and vocational courses, and to provide continuing adult education -- all within reach of students in a broad Central Texas area.

"Expense of getting started in higher education is much less at a junior college," said Dr. Marvin R. Felder, President, "and the faculty can devote much more personal attention to the individual student."

Dr. Felder is beginning his first year at the college, replacing the retiring H. M. Dawson.

Typically, about half the Temple Junior College student body is from the local area, but the others usually represent up to 80 high schools in a broad range of Central Texas.

A new dormitory on the campus will open this fall to aid in housing many out-of-town students. Rooms in the dormitory are still available and applications are being accepted. Anyone interested in making application should contact the business manager, Percy Francis.

The modern new dormitory will house 126 students. It features double rooms, lounge areas, plentiful parking. Men's and women's wings of the building open on a common lobby, and the building is adjacent to the Arnold Student Union, where meals are served.

In addition to the new dormitory is a new pedestrian overpass spanning Highway 36 to link the main campus with the new gymnasium, baseball park, golf course, swimming pool, and other athletic facilities.

Counselors are already assisting prospective students in pre-registering, and formal registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. on August 30. Students will register in the order of numbers given them at pre-registration conferences, and those who have not pre-registered will enroll after 2 p.m. August 31.

Registrar Charles Stout said enrollment this fall will probably be between 1,200 and 1,300 students.

Garden Pool Gives New Dimension

Give your garden a new dimension with a small pool. "Water in the landscape provides a psychological feeling of coolness and tranquility," points out Dr. William Welch, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Aquatic plants and colorful fish add further interest and small recirculating pumps and jets can be installed to add the pleasant sound of splashing water."

When planning a pool for your garden area, be sure that it conforms to the overall design of the garden. Use construction materials that will blend naturally into the landscape and do not become dominant visual elements themselves, suggests the Texas A&M University System specialist.

A "do it yourself" can build a pool from a galvanized water trough available from many farm supply stores. If aquatic plants are to be grown, select a trough at least 18 inches deep.

Painting the trough inside and out with epoxy paint will increase the life and attractiveness of this type pool. Black paint is usually the best color selection since it increases the water's reflecting ability.

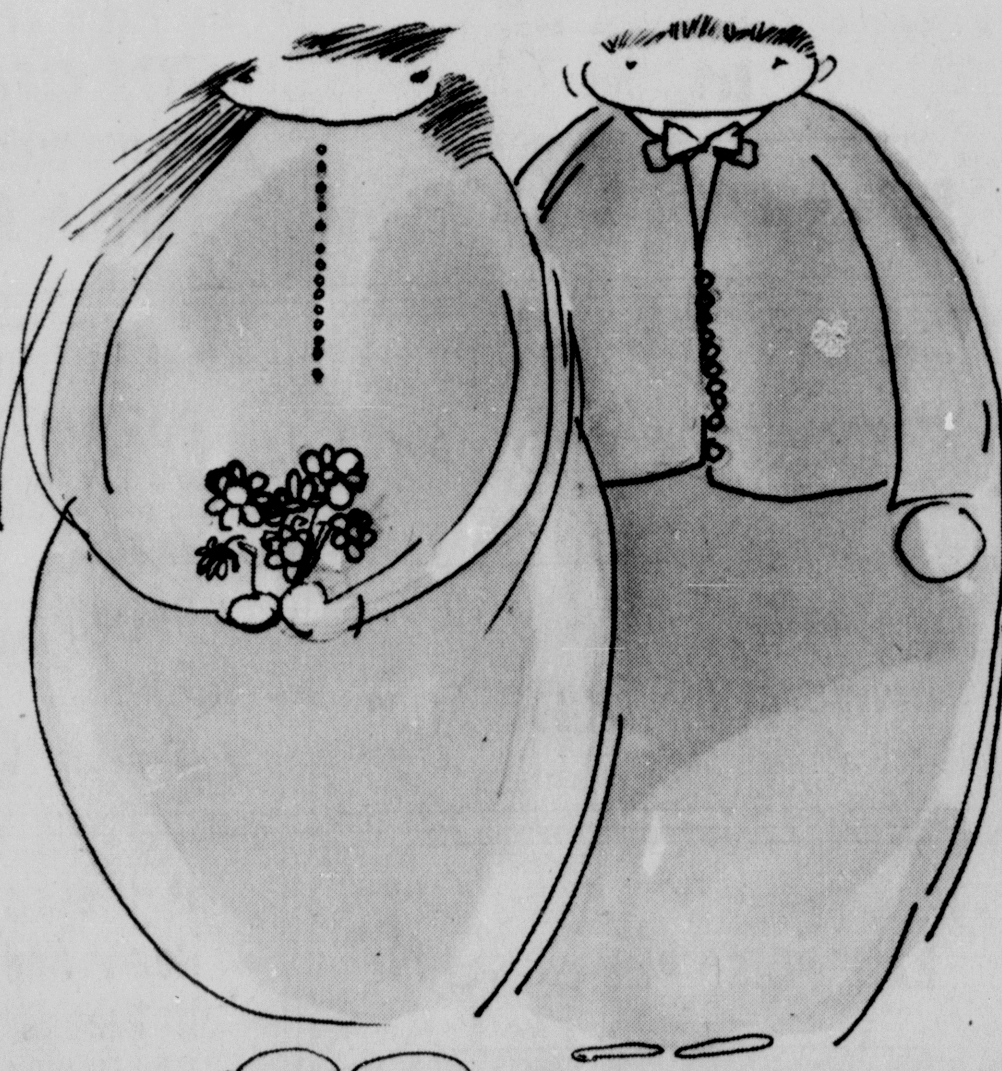

Bury the trough in the ground so that only 2 or 3 inches remain above ground level.

"If you're interested in growing aquatic plants in your pool, place them in clay pots submerged in the water," advises Welch. Use a rich soil mixture high in organic matter. A layer of about two inches of gravel on top of the soil will help keep the soil from muddying the water."

Fish can usually be left in the pool the year round in the southern part of the state. They help keep the water clean and relatively free of insects.

Pools having a good balance of fish plants and water may never have to be drained and cleaned, adds the horticulturist.

Bonds are for giving at weddings.

Give the bride and groom a U.S. Savings Bond. Who knows, maybe when they buy their first house, their first car, or take their first vacation, it'll be because you gave them their first Bond. U.S. Savings Bonds. A good way to start a marriage.

Take stock in America.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds

Now it's easier than ever to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Buy them at your bank, post office, or wherever you see the "Buy U.S. Savings Bonds" sign. Or, if you prefer, you can buy them by mail. Just fill out the form and send it to the U.S. Treasury Department. No need to wait for delivery. Your bonds will be sent to you as soon as they are available.

French Embassy Opens Again In Vietnam Capitol

By Angela Fathers

SAIGON

Reuter -- The re-establishment of the French embassy in Saigon last month has focused attention on the sizeable French community left behind here when France ended its colonial rule 19 years ago.

Diplomatic relations were broken off in 1966 when President Charles de Gaulle called on the United States to pull its troops out of Vietnam.

But personal relations between the two peoples have always been warm and the opening of the embassy is expected to reinforce the affection between the Vietnamese and the remaining 10,000 French here, officials say.

The former colonialists

The cities are full of tree-lined boulevards, solid provincial French buildings, and Glass-fronted cafes and restaurants.

Their inhabitants watch French films, drink French wine, and smoke Gaullois cigarettes. Many Vietnamese also work for French companies.

"The Vietnamese find more in common with the French than with the Americans."

Says one aged Vietnamese employee in a French factory. "We are oddly similar to the French in physique and temperament. We enjoy their whole culture."

He and others point out that the influence of the French bureaucracy gave the country its first efficient, if slow, government. It was the French who developed Vietnam's resort areas. Their introduction of long bread baguettes instead of the staple rice revolutionized local eating habits.

The Americans with their brash, materialistic outlook, their air-conditioning and hamburgers, clearly had a hard time following them.

The majority of the 10,000 strong French community, many of them Indians or mixed blood known as Metis have lived in Vietnam since the 1950s.

A French embassy spokesman, Jacques Moreau, says the French in Vietnam have become so used to the country and the Vietnamese, they rarely return to France.

"Once they have all their possessions in Vietnam, it is often too awkward to move them" he says.

Most important are businessmen who play an important role in the country's economy running a series of monopolistic industries. They own breweries, pharmacies, tire, cigarette, glassware and butane gas factories and car assembly plants.
